

Body Language

Soft Skill Group

The silent component of communication that we employ to express our actual emotions and give our messages greater weight is body language. Let's know ourselves to understand others better.

"The Soft skills are the door to obtain that you want, all the time involving a positive environment and thoughts, it can complement the technical skills"

What we do

In the Skyfall POD, we are convinced that soft skills should coexist with product and other technical skills. Incorporating them into our toolkit when facing the daily challenges at work can help us achieve our goals. Moreover, we can extend their use and see them as life skills since they will surely help us face and overcome difficult situations.

Therefore, we aim to generate and socialize content related to soft skills to support the continuous improvement and growth of other Globers since we believe that a happier and more human Globber will undoubtedly do a better and more meaningful job.

ICEBREAKER

HI!

You probably know people who, despite not being particularly unpleasant or unfriendly, generate mistrust. You wouldn't know what it is specifically, but they give off an aura that makes you not feel like confessing your real emotions to them.

With this workshop we hope you will understand the main concepts of body language so that you can better read others and correct possible mistakes you may be making. Here we go!

Principles

(Labels are for cans)
